Letter from the CEO for 2022

The year 2022 as been full of both uncertainty and exhilarating accomplishments.

It is with great gratitude we acknowledge that the spread of COVID has slowed down and the seriousness of the illness on vaccinated persons has lessened. What is currently impacting The Bell Well Center is the nationwide staffing shortage, especially in the healthcare industry. The pandemic, the economy and the "great resignation" has made it difficult for us to staff and open new programs that are on our drawing board.

Thanks to our executive team and expanded recruiting efforts, we will open our Withdrawal Management Unit before the end of the year. The goal is to add up to 38 additional beds for clients. This unit will address the reality of the drug fentanyl on the streets of Philadelphia and the effect it is having on our clients and the necessity for a revised approach to their recovery.

The launch of our Mobile Unit/RV has resulted in a closer relationship with the communities we serve and the opportunity to provide even more care to more clients.

We have again received recognition as one of the top 200 addiction centers in the United States by Newsweek Magazine. All our psychiatric units have been made completely anti-ligature and as a result, we received Joint Commission accreditation of our private psychiatric hospital giving our entire campus The Joint Commission gold seal of quality care.

The Be Well Center has placed intentional focus on training and hiring regarding diversity, equity and inclusion in our organization, initially focusing on management and physicians. In addition, all department heads have received empathy training.

Our outreach to community and governmental partners has resulted in partnerships with several institutions of higher education, a tertiary hospital and several others in the pipeline and grants from state and municipal sources.

After many years without one, we are offering our staff a retirement plan beginning in October and holding our first fundraising event to establish a comprehensive therapeutic horticulture garden and program for our clients.

To expand our governance capacity, we are extremely happy to welcome a new member to our board of directors, Ms. Idette Elizondo, who brings, amongst many skills her deep knowledge of strategic planning.

I look forward to fully staffing every unit, programmatic expansion on and beyond our current campus; and addressing the needs of our clients and staff in new and innovative ways.

The Behavioral Wellness Center at Girard remains committed to serving our community with the best care possible. Be well.
